Skies Clear Yesterday; No Bomber Flies

Reason Unknown; Enemy Telegrams Show No Softening Of Hearts Toward Peking Citizens

Kuominchun Plane Monday Frightened Attacker, Is One Explanation; War Along Line, Is Another; Appeals Effective, Is Third

Chung Mei
Peking was spared an air raider yesterday morning. There is speculation as to whether he had reports of the presence of the Kuominchun plane which flew over the city Monday afternoon or whether the fighting between here and Tientsin prevented the trip.

Thousands of Chinese and foreigners alike were waiting at quarter to ten, the hour of the previous bombing, but no plane came from the south. They were rewarded for their watch, however, by the sound of heavy firing in the distance.

Late Monday afternoon a plane flew very low over Peking and it appears to have been one of the very old models from the Ching Ho aviation base, which was set up by the Kuominchun. It seems to have had a good effect on the enemy raider, however.

Marshal Tuan Chi-jui received a telegram from former Minister of War, Wu Kuang-hsin, who was entrusted with approaching Li Ching-fan and Chang Tsung-chang relative to stopping the aerial bombing.

Fengtien Objective

General Wu is quoted as having wired that it was the aim of the Fengtien plane to bomb the Ministries of War, Navy, and Finance, the Cabinet, Chan Tan Ssu, the Emergency Headquarters and the South and West Suburb barracks. However, if the Kuominchun would evacuate Peking, the bombing would be stopped immediately. Otherwise, the Fengtien military would have not the slightest compunction in blowing up the whole city.

CAUTION AND CAR SHORTAGE STOP SERVICE ON PEKING-HANKOW

Chung Mei

Failure to restore passenger service on the Peking-Hankow Railway is said to be due to the lack of rolling stock and likewise to the search that must be conducted at some different points on the line.

Even the special train carrying the peace mediator of Tien Wei-chin was held at Liang Hsiang by the 3rd Kuominchun pending telegraphic instructions from Commander Lu.

Paoting Negotiator Returns Optimistic Of Rapprochement

Calls On Lu To Report On Mission; Chin Yun-ao To Come Soon To Complete Anti-Fengtien Plans, Is Report

Kuo Wen

Mr. Wang Nai-mo, Director of the Kin-Han Railway and representative of the 1st Kuominchun in negotiating with General Chin Yun-ao for a rapprochement, returned from Paoting yesterday morning and immediately had a conference with General Lu Chung-lin to report the result of his mission. According to Mr. Wang, a satisfactory arrangement has been reached with the Chihli army whereby the Kin-Han line is to be placed under the control of General Chin's troops, the 3rd, and 5th Kuominchun armies under Sun Yueh and Fang Chen-wu to be withdrawn to Peking. General Tien Wei-chin's Chihli troops are subsequently moving northward from Paoting and General Chin is expected to pay a visit to the capital in the near future in order to complete the remaining part of the preliminary rapprochement alleged to have been concluded between the two parties, regarding the attitude to be jointly adopted towards the Fengtien party.

More Mediators Leave

Pan Ta-tao Asks Procuratorate To Make Prosecutions

Lawyer For Government Schools Files Petition, Signed By Friends Of Killed; Wounded To File Another Petition

Kuo Wen

Mr. Pan Ta-tao, one of the well-known lawyers of Peking, yesterday formally filed a petition with the local procuratorate, requesting that it prosecute Marshal Tuan Chi-jui and Premier Chia Teh-yao in connection with the March 18th incident.

The petition is signed by the friends of the killed in the various government universities, while the injured will file a separate suit against the Government. It remains to be seen whether the procuratorate will act on the petition and summon Marshal Tuan and Premier Chia to appear before the district court and answer the charges preferred against them.

Funeral Arrangements

The local Student Union announces that it has been decided to bury the student dead at Yuan Ming Yuan, near Hai Tien, and that a public funeral will take place as soon as arrangements have been completed. A sum of about two thousand dollars has been subscribed by various local organizations to cover the funeral expenses, while each school will hold a subscription campaign shortly. It is not known how much the funeral will cost, but the students in charge of the union declare that at least $5,000 is needed.

Support By Telegrams

The Union has received telegrams of condolence from the Chinese Students' Club in New York City, the Shansi Provincial Students' Union, the Hupeh and Kirin Students' Unions. In addition to voicing sympathy for the students killed and wounded in the March 18th affair, these student organizations express great indignation at the conduct of the guards who fired on the demonstrators without warning and in a cold-blooded manner, and urge that the Peking students should continue the fight against foreign imperialism and militarism.

Wu Supports Students

Kuo Wen

Hankow, April 4.—Marshal Wu Pei-fu is said to have replied to the appeals of the ex-M. P's demanding for justice and an impartial investigation of the student tragedy on March 18th in front of the Cabinet Office, expressing his sympathy with the dead and wounded and promising to support the education circle.

FOUR FAITHFUL MOTOR CARS CARRY MAIL

Nippon Dempo

Since the traffic between Peking and Tientsin has been interrupted, the carrying of mail matters is being undertaken by four automobiles, two of which run in the morning and two others in the evening. Activities of the postal authorities and postmen are thankfully acknowledged by the citizens, notably by foreign inhabitants.

CATHOLIC PRAY FOR BRETHREN "PERSECUTED" BY MEXICO LAWS

United Press

Rome, April 5.—Prayers are to be initiated by Catholics throughout the world, at the request of the Pope, for the cessation of religious "persecution" in Mexico where new laws are causing the closing of all Catholic schools, it was announced today.

The Pope hopes that by public and private prayer, the Catholics may demonstrate the necessity for an early alteration in the policy of the Mexican Government.

A Terrible Muddle, Is Reuter View Of Present Situation

News Agency Summarizes Puzzling Threads Of Peking's Puzzle; Reviews Situation

Reuter

Everyone in Peking seemed to be in full agreement upon one thing, namely, that it would be difficult to imagine a more involved situation, one more fraught with the possibility of sudden change. Peace negotiations are intermingled with military and political intrigues, bargaining, plots and counterplots, and propaganda is rampant. Well informed Chinese seem unable to express more than a hope or a fear regarding the probable outcome of the present complications.

The Wu Puzzle

During the recent lull in the fighting there have been persistent rumours of an impending agreement between Marshal Wu Pei-fu and the First Kuominchun, and although these reports are now taking definite shape and there is no longer any doubt that important discussions are proceeding the situation is more involved than ever.

The first open move towards a rapprochement between Marshal Wu and the Kuominchun was the departure of Generals Wang Nai-mo and Ho Suai for Paoting to interview General Chin Yun-ao. On their arrival there General Chin had not reached Paoting, and they went on to Chengtingfu. General Wang returned to Peking on Monday, while General Ho remained at Paotingfu. On Monday also General Kung Nai-hsi arrived in Peking. He is said to have full authority from Marshal Wu to conclude an agreement with the Kuominchun. Last night General Kung had an interview with General Lu Chung-lin, after which he telegraphed a report to Hankow.

According to unofficial reports, an agreement in principle has already been reached, whereby the Kuominchun will evacuate Peking as soon as General Chin Yun-ao arrives to take over the city, with the Hupeh troops now at Chochow, but this report is generally believed to be premature.

Marshal Wu now holds the line from Hankow to the suburbs of Peking, but it is not expected that the 20th division at Chochow will be reinforced unless the negotiations break down or some

Powers Send Protest Note On Air Raids

Endanger Life And Property Of Foreign Nationals; Also Interfere With International Conference, Is Plaint

Chung Mei

Air raids jeopardize to foreign nationals from continued warfare and the interruption of the Customs Conference and Extraterritoriality Commission, were the subject of a note from the Netherlands and Senior Minister to Hu Wei-teh, Minister for Foreign Affairs, delivered yesterday afternoon.

This action was taken following a meeting of the interested ministers yesterday morning.

The Note

The communication reads: Peking, April 6, 1926.

Monsieur le Ministre,

The Foreign Ministers accredited to the Chinese government being confronted with the outbreak of hostilities in Peking itself are concerned for the safety of the foreign Legations and the lives and properties of foreign residents in the Diplomatic Quarter and other parts of the city, which are seriously jeopardized by the continuance of such hostilities.

While determined to maintain the attitude of strict neutrality to which they have adhered throughout the civil wars in China, the Foreign Ministers consider that they are justified in reminding the Chinese Government of their responsibility towards the friendly Foreign Powers whose nationals are thus endangered, and in expressing the hope that they will take immediate steps to impress upon the contending parties the necessity of averting this danger, not only for humanity's sake but also to avoid further interruption of the labours of the International Conference at present being held in Peking in the interest of the Chinese People as a whole and in which the delegations of twelve friendly nations are taking part.

Protest Raids

They wish particularly to draw the attention of the Chinese Government to the air raids which have taken place these last few days, in the course of which aeroplanes have repeatedly flown over the Diplomatic Quarter.

In protesting against the violation of the said Quarter, and in holding the Chinese Government responsible in the event of injury to the lives or property of their several nationals in the Legation Quarter as well as outside its limits, they would

CABINET OMITS BOMB TALK AS BOMBER DOES NOT APPEAR

Chung Mei

The dropping of bombs on Peking was said to have been on the agenda of the cabinet yesterday but since the raider did not appear, it was not taken up.

The question of peace between the Chihli and Kuominchun factions was discussed and it is understood that General Chin Yun-ao is expected in Peking within a day or two to negotiate directly with the Kuominchun leaders.

Describes Motor Trip In Tientsin Peking War Zone

"Nippon Dempo" Man Sees No Fighting But Many Troops, Trenches And Sentries

Nippon Dempo

A representative of "Nippon Dempo", on his return to Peking from Tientsin broke through the war lines by automobile. He left Tientsin at 9:20 o'clock Monday morning, and drove along the highway.

He observed that the allied forces who, up to a few days ago, were assembled along the highway had disappeared, leaving traces of their presence in the trenches dug here and there between Yangtsun and Taanping. A vanguard consisting of a small squad of soldiers led by White Russian officers were encamped at Taliuchuang. There was no single soldier between Taliuchuang and Matou, some twenty li in length. The Kuominchun's vanguards were present at Liangkochuang. No fighting took place during the day and the war was apparent only in the highways destroyed by trenches. Tungchow was reached at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Tang Chih-tao's men were on guard and their morale was apparently excellent. The foremost front was four to five

Firing Yesterday Was At Huangtsun, Say Kuominchun; Quiet At Tungchow Sector; Report Withdrawal In Direction Of Tientsin

Kuo Wen

Reports from Tientsin declare that a general offensive against Peking on the part of the Chihli-Shantung forces will be started to-day. General Chang Chung-chang and General Chu Yu-po, Acting Tupan of Chihli, have arrived at Huangtsun, while General Chang Hsueh-liang has shifted his Headquarters to Lofa. The Kuominchun have been preparing for an emergency in Shansi, and sent eight cannon to Chaikou on the 4th instant.

Cannonading could be heard in certain sections of the city this morning. It was thought to be a considerable distance away.

Much relief is being felt in Peking on account of the non-arrival of the "Allied" aeroplane which has been paying a visit to the Capital about ten o'clock every morning during the last few days, and dropping unwelcome "gifts" in the shape of small bombs.

Mr. Liu Chi, Governor of the Metropolitan District, is in receipt of reports to the effect that General Chen Yi, one of the divisional commanders of the Kiangsu Tupan, General Sun Chuan-fang, has led his troops in the direction of Shantung, and that this has resulted in the return of General Chang Tsung-chang to Tsinan with two armoured cars.

General Chu Yu-po, Acting Tupan of Chihli, is in Tientsin while General Li Ching-lin is now staying at Yangtsun.

PROFESSOR SEES NO HOPE IN LEGAL ACTION; ROTTEN POLITICS THE SEAT OF EVIL

A pessimistic view is held about the future of the shooting of March 18th by Professor Kou Yi-han of the National University in a current editorial in the "Contemporary Review." His article, translated, reads as follows:

"Half a month has elapsed since the shooting of March 18th. During this time most of the people have been in mourning of the dead. The authorities of the government and private schools are bringing a law suit against the criminals involved.

"Theoretically, no criticisms can be made of the action of law suit, as it is a process recognized as legal in a civilized country or a country governed by law. But we must not overlook the fact that such a cruel incident could never take place in a country governed by law. The occurrence of such an incident in China shows, therefore, that China is not at present such a country and under such circumstances it is apparently true that no legal method will be effective.

Courts Futile

"Therefore I strongly believe that this case can not be settled through the courts. The Ministries of Justice and War may appoint officers to investigate the case. The government and private schools may engage lawyers to bring a law suit. But all these are merely a waste of

In view of the increase of the number of cases of suicide on account of the high cost of living and economic pressure, the police have considered it advisable to place additional guards along the banks of the moat and canals in order to prevent such tragedies from being increased.

The Powers Protest

After the obvious failure of the "Allied" air attacks upon Peking to achieve their object, namely, to terrorise the population of Peking into demanding the withdrawal of the Kuominchun, the Foreign Ministers accredited to the Chinese Government have sent in a formal protest to the Ministry for Foreign Affairs, couched in the usual terms of assurance of strict neutrality and containing the usual threat to hold the Chinese government responsible in the event of injury to the lives and property of their nationals.

Their appeals to humanity are unconvincing, for it is their governments who have evolved the modern theory of war that there is no such thing as a non-combatant; that in so far as the whole population is engaged in the war directly in the fighting ranks and indirectly in supplying the needs for war, the whole population is legitimate object of attack. These peace lovers are now squandering the results of the toil of their peoples in constructing aeroplanes and poison gas that in the next war, the menace of which is always present, will be used to exterminate, not combatants in the fighting but civilians in the rear. Furthermore it is they who have evolved the politics of war to terrorise the civilian population at home by mass air raids in order to weaken the will to the continuation of the war.

The latter aim has been the deliberate object of the "Allied" command. They had hoped to cause a panic in the city in order that the people would demand the withdrawal of the Kuominchun. Already letters had appeared in the press, written by alleged Chinese trying to lay the blame for the bombing upon the presence of the Kuominchun. If these screeds were not fakes then they represent the views of the agents of the "Allied" armies here. As far as the overwhelming majority of the Chinese inhabitants of Peking is concerned the demonstration of frightfulness was regarded as only a foretaste of what they can expect if the Chinese saviours of "civilisation" from bolshevism entered the city. Their desire that the Kuominchun remain in Peking has become all the stronger.

It is remarkable that although the air raids have continued for several days with the airmen calmly circling over the Legation Quarter and dropping bombs within a stone's throw from it, which in view of the pronouncedly bad marksmanship of the bombers might lead one to suppose that they were aiming at it, the protest of the Foreign Ministers comes only today, when the failure of the raids have become obvious, and they have ceased.

The Foreign Ministers hold the Chinese Government responsible for damage likely to be caused by the war being brought to Peking. But have not the "Allied" armies been encouraged, nay urged by foreign interests to advance on Peking and drive out the Kuominchun? In this the desires of the "Allied" armies coincided with that of the foreign powers as was shown by the opinion, born of the wish, expressed by Mr. Yoshizawa, but afterwards denied, that the Kuominchun would leave Peking within a few days.

The note of the representatives of the Powers cannot be regarded as intervention in the interests of humanity, their own disregard of humanity in the execution of their own policies disqualifies them for that role. The note must be regarded as another demonstration of the intervention of the foreign powers in the internal affairs of China, an intervention which has always been directed against the interests of the Chinese people. Their assurance of strict neutrality deceives nobody after the events that have occurred during the present campaign. Their concern for the lives and property of foreigners is unconvincing after they have quietly disregarded the violation of the privileges the foreigners claim in this country when consideration of broader policy dictate it. True they protest, but only after the immediate object has been achieved, or as in the present case, when this violation has failed to achieve its purpose, and further toleration would create a dangerous precedent.

To hold the Chinese government responsible for damage likely to be suffered by foreigners in the course of internal conflict in the country is degrading to the sovereignty of the State. While they are free foreigners must put up with the same risks and dangers that the rest of the population have to put up with in the turmoil of China's political evolution. If they do not desire to take these risks they have the alternative of leaving the country. And we are of the opinion that the sooner the foreigners,—or rather their governments, for we have nothing to say against the presence of foreigners as such,—leave China severely alone the dangers to the peace and order of China will cease.

The Enthronement Of Imperialist Cant

An inquiry into that enthronement of cant which characterizes the public statements of imperialist politicians and diplomats probably leads into the realm of moral philosophy—or pathological psychology. And that's a bit far afield for a newspaper leader. It is enough for our purpose to point out some of its manifestations.

What could be more sickening to honest men, for example, than the periodic spectacle of a British Prime Minister or Foreign Secretary drooling about "Britain's sympathetic policies toward China"? Or the oft-repeated statements from the American State Department about its efforts "to give China its rightful place in the comity of nations"? Such phrases overload their public statements at the very moment when their active shapers of policy are doing their level best to keep China weakened and distraught and to delay as long as possible the realization of China's demands for her rights to sovereign control in her own territory.

There is just one thing more nauseating than such official pronouncements. That is the statement, in many variations, about the conditions China must meet before she can have back the rights stolen from her in years past by these kindly-minded but burglarious Powers. We hear it in many forms. China—to use the commonest one, heard from all the asinine liberals who believe that the return of stolen goods constitutes high generosity—must "first put her house in order". That phrase has become a sort of fetish-phrase, like the "idee fixe" of an asylum inmate. Half of those who use it never have examined it, and do not know what it means. Some, if they made such examination, perhaps have enough intelligence to know that it is simple blather.

It takes other forms. China must abolish likin. China must promise to tie her hands in advance on the rates of tariff she will fix under an autonomous system. China must make students stick to their studies and insulate themselves against all indignation at China's wrongs. China must make her common people wear yellow cotton goods instead of blue, because blue dyes are more expensive and the foreign suppliers of cotton goods want profits. China must cease being critical of the foreign policies of the Powers, because it annoys the Powers' Foreign Offices. China must cultivate the ability to say "Yes" when Imperialist diplomats make demands. China must enforce a law compelling ricksha pullers to say thanks when underpaid by foreign fares.

All these have long since been urged as conditions to be met before the world returns to China the stolen goods of pre-empted rights on Chinese territory.

But there is a new one. A hilariously funny new one. It is offered by Mr. Henry Morgenthau, former U.S. Ambassador to Turkey, characterized by the North China Daily News of Shanghai as one of "the elder statesmen" of the United States. If he is an elder statesman then he has one of the characteristics of such persons everywhere: he is in his intellectual dotage. He is one of those referred to in these columns some days ago who "mumble their toothless gums and, because they have breath in their mouths, think they are alive."

Mr. Morgenthau tells a waiting world, on the qui vive for solutions of "the Chinese problem", that "a prerequisite to China securing her just position among the family of nations is the abolition, or government control, of all drugs."

This is told to a reporter for a British-owned paper (which defends the Opium Wars Britain waged to safeguard her market in China for the drugs which debauched China) by a former ambassador of a country whose cities' streets are filled with the victims of morphia and cocaine, a country whose per capita consumption of habit-forming drugs is NINE TIMES as great as the per capita consumption of such drugs in any other Caucasian country in the world. Authority for the statistics may be found in the statements made by Representative Porter of the U.S. House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee at two sessions of the Opium Conference in Geneva.

Seats For April 26 Chamber Music Concert On Sale

Madame Valenson, Mrs. Whiffen, Mr. Oroop, Mr. Escarra, and Mr. Petropolavsky To Play

Chung Mei

Tickets are now on sale at the Peking Institute of Fine Arts for the evening of Chamber Music which has been arranged for Monday evening, April 26th, at the Grand Hotel de Peking. Madame Valenson, Mrs. Whiffen, Mr. Oroop, Mr. Escarra and Mr. Petropolavsky will be the musicians. The combination of these artists with the opportunity, all too rare in Peking, of hearing chamber music gives promise of a delightful evening. Members of the Institute will be admitted free but they are reminded that all seats are reserved and must be secured at the Institute. Tickets to non-members are $3.00 each.

To add to the irony of the statement, to the blatant hypocrisy of it, it needs but to be added that those Opium Conferences failed of their objective—the abolition of opium poppy culture save to that limit needed for legitimate medical uses of opium—because Britain's representatives refused to curtail the Indian production of poppies. And to that one may also add the fact—to be found in any issue of The Statesman's Year-Book—that the British-Indian Government SUBSIDIZES POPPY CULTURE by lending money without interest to agriculturists preparing poppy crops, and then holds auctions of the raw opium every month in Calcutta, to which buyers from all the world are welcomed, and from which they disseminate their vile purchases wherever they can get the richest profit. By the simple expedient of those auctions in Calcutta Britain nourishes her hypocrisy by appearing to evade responsibility for the eventual distribution of the drug.

To the people who, in this hypocritical fashion, lend their active support to such a foul business, this same Mr. Morgenthau invites the ribald laughter of honest men by saying: "I regard the British as the guardians of civilization!" Guardians of civilization through the process of subsidizing opium manufacture with which to dope the world! Guardians of civilization through Opium Wars with which to enforce upon an unwilling people a drug which its leaders know to be a curse and a bane! Guardians of civilization in India where they shoot down men in hundreds at the ends of machine guns because, forsooth, these men have dared to ask freedom and liberty in the land of their fathers!

It is a stench in the nostrils of honest men, such cant and low hypocrisy, and the condoning of it, even by sheer ignorance as is probably the case with Mr. Morgenthau, is only slightly less reprehensible.

It was perhaps a dim gleam of decency which caused the Shanghai paper to place Mr. Morgenthau's brilliant idea about drug control for China at the tail end of the long interview that gave the British Imperialist paper such gloating pleasure. There is, in any assay of the British mind in China, to be found some slight trace of conscience when opium and drugs are discussed. The nature of Hongkong's revenues, that office of the Opium Monopoly, Opium Wars, drug ships—such things are not spoken of in British company in China, any more than one makes casual references to capital punishment in conversation with a man whose father has been recently hanged.

Mr. Morgenthau has gone home to America to celebrate his 70th Birthday, the cited report states. It might be recommended to him that he spend some of his birthday anniversary hours in a study of drug control in the United States and its pitiful ineffectiveness; that he read some of the indignant articles which have been printed in American newspapers about British responsibility for the flooding of America with morphia, that he read Ellen La Motte's "The Opium Monopoly" and learn a few facts about the responsibility for the progressive doping of the world with habit-forming drugs.

When he shall have done these things, we are ready to believe—at least to hope—that Mr. Morgenthau will no longer talk of the British as the guardians of civilization, and he will talk a bit less glibly about China's abolition of drugs. He will begin to think of drug abolition in the United States. He will remember the proverb of the mote and the beam.

Dr. C. T. Wang is still at Tientsin, staying in one of his friends' house in the French concession and he refuses to receive visitors. Dr. Wang is watching fresh developments in the Chinese situation and is said to be participating in the secret parleys between the leaders of the Chihli party and the Kuominchun about co-operation. Dr. Wang has not resigned his dual-post of Director of the Sino-Russian Conference as well as Chairman of the Number Two Committee of the Tariff Conference; but, it is stated, he will not return to the capital, in spite of the request of Mr. Hu Wei-teh new Foreign Minister, until the question of Kuominchun's evacuation of Peking is decided

All through this week the "Wets" are to have a period of four hours daily in which to present their side of the case before the sub-committee.

Next week the "Drys" will be given similar time to present the arguments in favor of continued prohibition.

It is understood that the "Wets" realize that they cannot hope for a liberalization of the National Prohibition Law during the present session of Congress, but they intend to utilize publicity to the fullest extent in an effort to stir public opinion and put prohibition definitely into politics before the next elections.

bombing by the "Ching Pao" yesterday which asserts that if such criminal acts are a part of Chinese politics, the Chinese people might well feel ashamed when meeting foreigners.

The paper blames the government officials for doing nothing to stop the danger other than sending telegrams to Tientsin. These officials are accused of taking a passive stand in the hope that the foreigners will take an active step to end the menace.

Chang Tsung-chang Defends

A telegram from Chang Tsung-chang, Li Ching-lin and Chang Hsueh-liang, addressed to public bodies here, is reported to have stated that the Kuominchun had sent aeroplanes to Tientsin, although they did not drop bombs and the Fengtien side felt that it had a right to take counter-measures.

The telegram is further said to point out that the Kuominchun is attempting to raise funds in Peking to use against the Fengtien alliance, and therefore, the bombing is but a part of the campaign against them.

Chang Tso-lin Dodges

Marshal Chang Tso-lin is reported to have sent a non-committal reply to the appeal addressed directly to him to stop the bombing. He declares that the evacuation of the capital by the Kuominchun would stop the danger, but does not promise to take any other stop himself.

See Peace Significance

Kuo Wen

The non-arrival of the Fengtien aeroplane in Peking yesterday morning, which has been raiding the capital during the past four days, is construed in local Chinese circles as indicating the success of the mission of Mr. Kuan Yuan-chin, who went to Tientsin by motor car yesterday as representative of the Chief Executive to make a personal appeal to Generals Li Ching-lin and Chang Tsung-chang to stop these air raids. It is understood that the informal representations of the Diplomatic Corps to the allied leaders have also influenced them to discontinue the practice.

A delegation of representatives of various provincial chambers of commerce stationed in Peking paid a call on General Wang Shih-tsen Monday afternoon when they requested him to address another telegram to Generals Li and Chang urging them to stop air raids on Peking at once, as these are not only of no use from a military standpoint, and endanger the civilian population of the capital. General Wang acceded to the request and telegraphed to Generals Li and Chang at once.

EUROPE PURSUES PEACE AS MORE PROFITABLE AT THE MOMENT THAN WAR

By J. W. T. Mason
United Press Staff Correspondent.

London, March 14.—A new spirit of co-operation and mutual forbearance is extending its beneficent influence over an increasing part of Europe. The hatreds of the World War, which seemed eternal a short time ago, are being forgotten. Germany is beginning to confess that French enmity may have been deserved, and Englishmen are saying that the war guilt was not all on the side of Germany.

Travelling through the countries of Europe, and comparing present public sentiment with popular opinion of the period following the Versailles Treaty, is like passing from one epoch of history into its opposite. Europe is through with hatreds for the time being. Humanistic sentiments are abroad such as would have made the Versailles Treaty an entirely different document had they existed at the time of the negotiation.

No Sentimentality

There is no sentimentality in the new spirit of peace. On that respect it differs from the idealism of the movement of the war period. Europe today is passing into the control of practical men of affairs whose ideals are based on the principle of facing today's problems today and not legislating for the indefinite future.

Europe is rapidly becoming its old self once more, plus the experience gained from the war that fighting is a gambler's game that ruins everybody. This is not to say that Europe has seen its last war. The probability is that there will be another war when some nation decides it has found an unbeatable system, just as the habitues of Monte Carlo ever think they found a combination of numbers that will prove infallible against the roulette wheel.

But, for the moment, Europe has resolved that the roulette wheel is a danger for everybody. That spirit is sending the war gamblers back to the woods, while the doctrine of work and co-operation is now in the ascendant.

France Laggard

The borders of Europe today in the principal countries— which the possible exception of France—are returning to the principles of Samuel Smiles, "self-help". France is a laggard, but the impetus will be left in Paris eventually. Meanwhile, the contagion of the American spirit of hustle is spreading elsewhere, from Great Britain to the Balkans. Europe wants to get rich again, and Uncle Sam's way of getting rich by sticking to the job is becoming Europe's way.

being part of a battle with the enemy at Wei Shan Chuang, south of Huangtsun.

The fighting is said to have lasted during the night and up to noon yesterday. Monday night the allied forces attempted to rush the Kuominchun line with their armoured train, which is said to have resulted in failure.

Telephone messages from Tungchow yesterday state that everything is quiet there. A motor car coming from Tientsin reported that the Fengtien forces on the Tungchow front had fallen back forty li toward Tientsin.

An order for an offensive to begin Monday is understood to have sent the allied forces on the Peking Hankow Railway by General Chang Hsueh-liang, General Tien Wei-chin is reported to have taken no action in view of the pending negotiations between him and the Kuominchun.

Fengtien Plan

Kuo Wen

According to military circles the Fengtien troops on the north-eastern front have been advancing steadily westward towards Shun-yih-sien, Hwai-yuh-sien and Miyun-hsien with the apparent object of reaching the Peking Suiyuan line thereby intersecting the communications of the Kuominchun between Peking and Kalgan, and at the same time establishing a link with the allied Chihli-Shantung forces operating on the Peking-Tientsin line. For this reason the situation on that front is becoming more critical daily.

But according to the Kuominchun quarters, there is little hope of success for the Fengtien troops in this connection in view of the strong position and strength of the Kuominchun forces now defending that area, which has been efficiently fortified with modern military appliances. Besides the 3rd, 10th and 11th Infantry divisions, there are stationed the 2nd and 3rd cavalry divisions and the bodyguard brigades. The Fengtien troops will be given a lesson if they really attempt to carry out their threats, the Kuominchun claims, even they can muster all available units on this front for this task.

Dressmakers Of New York Win Strike

New York.—A threatened general strike of more than 20,000 dressmakers in New York has been settled by mediation. Union officials claim that the settlement meets the union's demands substantially, making a strike unnecessary.

The dressmakers' local of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union has been attempting to make the employers comply with their agreements, especially in regard to minimum wage scales.

A series of strikes in isolated shops had been called in the last two years. A general strike was impending. The employers appealed to the court to issue an injunction forbidding the union from calling such a strike. The judge, instead, summoned a conference of representatives of both sides. The employers then promised to abide by their agreements.

The New York locals of the Ladies Garment Workers' Union are controlled by the "left wing." The dressmakers' local is headed by Charles "Zimmerman," a member of the Workers (Communist) Party. These officials regard the terms of the settlement a victory for their tactics.

Moscow, April 4.—During the last three years house building has increased sevenfold in Moscow, according to the report made to the Moscow Soviet at its last meeting. The building programme for 1926 will provide new housing accommodation for 60,000 workers.

Miniature garden cities have sprung up in some of the former slum working class districts. For the time being the system of small cottages will be continued. Kerosine and candles are now entirely superfluous for lighting purposes in the vast majority of working class homes, owing to the introduction of electric light.

The Building Committee have under way plans for the construction of buildings of what is described in the report as "American type, large many storied premises for offices for commercial and industrial enterprises. Among those projected are "Co-operative House", "Textile House" a building for the State Trading Department and premises for the State Printing Works.

Trenches And Sand Bags Guard Tuan's House, Is Report

Increase Bodyguard, Get Machine Guns Ready, Dig Trenches, Store Food

Chung Mei

Trenches and sand bags are reported to guard the residence of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui, Chief Executive of the Provisional Government, according to the local press.

The bodyguards have been increased and machine guns prepared for use, says the report. Following the air raid of last Sunday, a trench is said to have been dug from Tiao Tu Tai at the south of the residence to the artificial hills at the north. Quantities of food were also stocked in the bodyguard barracks, according to the report.

A TERRIBLE MUDDLE

unexpected development occurs. The Chang Puzzle

How far an agreement between Marshal Wu and the Kuominchun would clash with the views of Marshal Chang Tso-lin and his former subordinates, Generals Chang Tsung-chang and Li Ching-lin no one seems able to say. The Kuominchun headquarters, it will be remembered, asserted after the conference at Tangshan that Marshal Chang Tso-lin declined to compromise with the Kuominchun, and that he and General Chang allotted the spoils of war in advance in a manner unfavourable to Marshal Wu. The Kuominchun, therefore, predicted a split between the two Marshals. Yesterday the Kuominchun headquarters stated that Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, acting in agreement with Marshal Wu Pei-fu, has ordered General Chen Yi to invade Shantung from Hsuehchow, that General Chang Tsung-chang has already left Tientsin for Tsingtau by armoured train and that General Li Ching-lin has taken command of the troops of the Huangtsun front.

Conflicting Reports

The report conflicts with reports from Tientsin, which state that General Chang Hsueh-liang has moved his headquarters to Lofa and that Generals Chang Tsung-chang and Chu Yu-pu (newly appointed Tapan of Chihli) have gone to the front line to start a general offensive against Peking tomorrow.

The retirement of the Fengtien forces from the vicinity of Tungchow has brought two explanations, one that it is part of a concentration near Huangtsun and the other that the forces that were there have joined troops from Yungpingfu and Jehol and that the combined troops will march towards the Nankou Pass.

Telegrams from Kalgan state that the Kuominchun are endeavouring to raise $800,000 there for military expenses, and that three brigades of cavalry and some artillery have been sent to the Shansi border to guard against a hostile move on the part of General Yen Hsi-shan.

in an attempt to interview Marshal Wu Pei-fu and General Sun Chuan-fang regarding the peace movement.

General Chin and his friends represent the second batch of peace envoys sent by General Wang Shih-chen and Mr. Chao Erh-shun in the interest of peace. At first they intended to travel to the south by sea via Tientsin, but owing to interruption of traffic between Peking and Tientsin, this plan was cancelled although Generals Li Ching-lin and Chang Tsung-chang promised them full protection while travelling in their territory.

Passenger traffic between Hankow and Paoting was resumed yesterday.

Government Will Indemnify Victims

Reports Conflict As To Whether All Or Only "Good" Victims Will Be Compensated

Kuo Wen

The question of granting an indemnity to the families of the killed and wounded in the March 18th affair was discussed at the Cabinet meeting yesterday morning. Mr. Chu Yang-kwang, Minister of the Interior, submitted a list of the killed and wounded, which his ministry prepared after the Government issued a mandate shortly after the shooting incident ordering it to investigate the case preliminary to the granting of compensation.

After a brief discussion the ministers decided to issue a mandate granting compensation to all killed and wounded. The mandate is expected to be issued shortly.

Reservations?

Reuter

The Cabinet today resolved to issue a mandate instructing the Ministries concerned to devise means to pay compensation to the non-Communist students who were wounded on March 18 and to the relatives of those who were killed.

time. As long as the present government exists, law suits will not be effective.

"As long as the criminals are still in the political arena, they will not submit themselves to judicial arbitration. Judicial problems can only be settled after the political problems have been settled. If political problems remain unsolved, it is self-deceit as well as a deceiving of others to appeal to the law.

"Although we people have not power to settle the political and judicial problems, we still have a sense of honor and a will to champion humanity.

No Time for Differences

"Before the shooting we may have disagreed in party affiliations or political views. But our differences must go now. We must subordinate selfishness to co-operation, and fight together for humanity and righteousness. We must not forget our common enemies, while we bear in mind our individual enemies."

li ahead of Tungchow.

Passed Sentries

Sentries were posted here and there in the two to three li between the front line and the allied forces. The sentinels of the latter forces were mostly "White" Russian soldiers.

Although it is true that the war lines between the contending forces were quite close, at Fengtai and Huangtsun, the allied forces were not pressing on Peking as has been reported lately. The allied forces had strong posts constructed with bricks at a point some two li ahead of Yangtsun.

The automobile traffic between Peking and Tientsin was free and safe, although the passengers were not infrequently subjected to strict examination by sentries.

Ho Teh-lin Still

Trying To Resign

Second Resignation Coming, Assistant Tells Cabinet But Press Thinks He'll Stay

Kuo Wen

Vice-Minister of Finance Chien Yang-hsiu informed the cabinet yesterday that Mr. Ho Teh-lin, had decided to submit a second letter of resignation to the Chief Executive. Mr. Chien said that Mr. Ho originally intended to use the $500,000 for the administrative expenses of the Government but that as this sum had been claimed by the military authorities he had no means to meet the payment of officials of the various government departments and since it was extremely difficult in the present state of affairs to raise another loan, Mr. Ho decided to resign.

After the session was closed, the delegates attended at the Conference made a round of visits at various medical institutions of the capital at the invitation of the Home Office. A reception gathering will be held to-night at the Kabukiza Theatre, when a pure Japanese play will be given for the entertainment of the guests.

Mr. Ho's resignation was handed to the Chief Executive on Saturday, but in spite of this he has been continuing his efforts to raise funds for the Government.

Rumor Change of Mind

According to information from local Chinese circles, Mr. Ho Teh-lin, Minister of Finance, has agreed to cancel his decision to resign as the result of persuasion on the part of the Government and the Kuominchun leaders that he remain in office.

Mr. Ho's resignation was handed to the Chief Executive on Saturday, but in spite of this he has been continuing his efforts to raise funds for the Government.

Watch Japan, Tuan And Tariff Parley, Warns "Chingpao"

Oppose Idea Of Getting Conference Finished Up Before Tuan Falls

Asiatic

The "Chingpao" prints an article warning the Chinese people to watch the conduct of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui and his Anfu subordinates vis-a-vis the customs tariff conference closely.

According to reliable information, declares the paper, Japan and other Powers will avail themselves of the present Chinese political situation to hurry up the tariff conference, as the foreign governments are afraid that after the downfall of the Anfu administration, Wu Pei-fu and his friends will oppose the continuation of the customs conference. The paper opposes the Japanese suggestion of completing the work of the customs conference prior to the fall of the Tuan regime to the detriment of Chinese national interests.
